HAYTI IS TRANQUIL

All Quiet in Port au Prince
General Simon Supreme

CIVIL STRIFE IMPROBABLE

Other Aspirants for the Presidency Are Inclined to Accept the Situation as Being Settled.

Port au Prince, Dec. 8.—The political situation is clearing, at least in certain directions. During the recent interview here between General Simon, the leader of the revolutionary movement that resulted in the flight of Nord Alexis, and General Bouchard, an aspirant for the presidency, who arrived yesterday, the latter said that in view of the fact that "God had blessed the arms of General Simon" he withdrew his candidacy in order that the possibility of civil war might be averted.

The proclamation of General Simon as president of the republic was then decided upon.

The local population has accepted the new order of things and General Simon will shortly take possession of the national palace.

General Turenne Jean Gelles, who was at one time mentioned as a possible successor to General Nord Alexis, has given assurance that he will see to the maintenance of order in the department of the north.

All the senators and deputies at present in Port au Prince are convinced that the election of General Simon by a large majority is assured, but it is argued that the election should be held without loss of time, so that the other presidential candidates will not be able to bring forward an increased resistance and in order to avoid American intervention, which probably would come in the case of disturbance of the peace.

Delegations left the capital today for the northern section of the republic to further the propaganda of peace. The new ministry has not yet been formed.

The financial situation is precarious. The government is expecting the arrival of two millions of local currency in nickel coins ordered by the previous administration.

MONTPELIER

Sudden Death of Miss Matilda P. Fair Sunday Night.
The death of Miss Matilda P. Fair occurred very suddenly at 7.30 o'clock Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Pock, where she had been employed for the past year. Miss Fair was in her usual health on Saturday, but was slightly indisposed Sunday, and the family did not think her illness serious. Toward the late afternoon she grew rapidly worse and was dead almost before a physician could be summoned. Miss Fair was born in Woodbury, September 5, 1866, and spent all her life in her home town until five years ago when she came to this city. She was employed by Mrs. J. M. Coates for a time, and by Mrs. T. R. Merrill for two years, entering the employ of Mrs. Pock just a year ago yesterday. She is survived by four brothers, Blake, John, Grant and Warren Fair, all of Woodbury, and one sister, Mrs. John Hawkins, of North Calais. Her loss is sincerely mourned by all who knew her for she spent all her life in service to others. The funeral will be held at one o'clock on Wednesday from the home of Mrs. Hawkins, her sister, in North Calais. Rev. J. Edward Wright of this city, officiating.

The annual memorial service of the Elks Benevolent and Protective Order, was held Sunday at the rooms of the society at 2 o'clock. The object of the meeting was the commemoration of the death of five members of the order, who have died during the past year, as the first Sunday in December is set apart by the laws of the society as the day on which their deaths is to be commemorated. Those who have died since the last annual memorial are C. E. Keenan, F. J. McCon and Bart Fitzgerald of this city, E. E. Evans of Randolph and W. M. Frazier of Barre. The exercises consisted of a memorial eulogy delivered by Hon. J. H. Senter.

More than 90 persons availed themselves of the privileges of the Kellogg Hubbard library Sunday afternoon. It is evident that there is some appreciation of the opportunities offered there and the trustees, who have been watching the efficacy of the innovation for some time, feel well repaid. The character of books selected, moreover, is along a high intellectual plane and the classics are much in demand.

Dr. C. E. Barrett tested the herd of J. H. McKelvey at Putnamville last week and found the entire herd of 31 cattle clean and free from disease.

Announcement was made in St. Augustine's church Sunday morning that the organization had cleared $1,200 from the proceeds of the church fair, held recently. The fair committee were busy last week footing up the bills and paying expenses. Although this is not as large a sum as has been made in former years, the committee feel well satisfied with the results of their labors and the sum netted is larger than was anticipated.

SCENE IN THIRD ACT OF "GRAUSTARK," AT THE BARRE OPERA HOUSE, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 10TH, 1908.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

"Graustark" at The Barre Opera House Thursday Night.

Under date of October 10th the Toledo (Ohio) Times reviews the renowned drama "Graustark" in this manner: "Raborn in its scenic effects, dramatic in its climaxes, and based on a story of heart interest into which is woven a spirit of patriotic pride, Graustark opened at the Lyceum, Sunday night most favorably and auspicious conditions.

The matinee audience simply went into ecstasies over the performance and time and time again the members of the very capable company were forced to respond to curtain calls and encores.

MISS GERTRUDE PERRY Of "Graustark" company, at the Barre opera house, Thursday, Dec. 10.

The play is a dramatization of George Barr McCutcheon's famous novel, Graustark, and that the thousands who have read the book are anxious to see the characters and story acted out is evident from the advance sale at the Lyceum, this week. The story is well known, two young Americans are in Graustark, a little European province, searching for a Miss Graustark, a non-de-plume taken by a prince in his travels through America. One of the young Americans meets the princess while she is traveling and becomes enamored of her. The search finally reveals the fact she is a real princess and the following story of court intrigues plots and counter plots, holds the interest of the audience from the rise of the curtain to the fall of the play. In the end Graustark, the despotic ruler of the province, wins her for his bride and reveals her the treasury of court intrigues, plots and counter plots.

On Thursday, December 10 the people of this city can see "Graustark," just as it is related above.

Why The Minstrels Parade To the joyous, "Why do the minstrels parade?" John W. Vogel, manager and proprietor of the big city minstrel, fifty all told, frankly responded: "Primarily for the advertisement."

Why else should it equip the band and company at such a large expenditure, if the display of the full strength of the company did not count for something?

"Who first put the minstrels in the street parade?" That skilled manager and exceedingly clever and original comedian, William W. Newcomb, he used at times to hire hand wagons of local liverymen, and brass bands, as he termed it. He carried lettered blankets for horses. "Were the performers uniformed?" "To the extent that each and all were decorated with a store pipe hat."

John W. Vogel's big city minstrels will appear at the opera house on Tuesday evening, Dec. 15.
